One teacher I remember, and why.	My mother introduced me to the world.	My maths teacher, who would punish the one showing the answers rather than the one copying. Don't procrastinate or prevaricate.	My chemistry teacher, who told me life is to find a place where you can make your name. Communication and listening.	Ray Coloy, he taught me not be afraid of failing. Don't be afraid to fail. Always try to be the best. Positive attitude.	Pradeep, my first boss, for giving with a smile. Persistence. Don't quit too early in the game.
One most valuable work lesson, thus far.	Always keep at it.	Eagerness to learn the ropes.	Willingness to listen and learn.	Open yourself to all possibilities.	Passion.
One thing I look for the most in a new recruit.	Not a shirker.	Get back only what you have lost.	Be the personal best, by Dr Lee, ex-CEO, Google Greater China. Integrity is the most important. Remember to take a break.	Shut off my e-mail.	Persistence, once again.
One thought from a book that I am currently reading.	Everyone has an opinion, experts have a position.	Race against the time.	Exercise with music.	Just do something everyday.	Have large buckets of continuous time.
One tip for time management.	Never put off for tomorrow what you can do today.	Don't eat as if there is no tomorrow.	Silence.	When there are no reported problems.	Sweat.
One key thing in my fitness routine.	I am too lazy physically to have a routine.	When people around you are sulking.	More communication; if alone, try music and reading.	Count to 100.	Pessimism.
One signal that tells me there is a problem.	When there is a delay.	Turn your thoughts elsewhere.	Low risk.	To keep at it. Keep investing.	Don't talk. Email, save as draft.
One technique for handling anger.	Stop and think.	Balance.	International exposure.	They challenge us to learn.	Company.
One essential ingredient in my investment portfolio.	Avoid temptation to make a fast buck.	Fascination for gadgets.	Disinclination for physical work.	Reminds me I'm getting old.	Articulate.
One good thing about the new generation.	Open to the world.	Transparency.	Trust.	Great relationship.	Too casual.
One worrying thing about the young.	Too open to foreign influence.	Not to be too judgmental.	You are doing better than the others.	Honesty, always honesty.	Enthusiasm.
One thing that clinches a deal.	Confidence.	Allows persons to cool down.	Immediate communication.	Hear all viewpoints.	Trust.
One definition of values.	Opposite of price.	Chatting with seat mates.	Local food.	Meeting new people.	Take time to talk.
One way that I use for resolving conflicts.	Compromise.	Improvement on the ground.	Customer satisfaction.	How someone handles failure.	Read.
One favourite activity when travelling.	Reading.	Per capita income.	The business of taxi drivers.	Price of airline tickets.	Finishing.
One indicator of performance.	Finish on time.	Greater involvement with public.	Be a teacher.	Become a teacher.	Information as currency.
One macroeconomic variable I keenly watch.	State of the country's poor.	Not to hammer the nail that sticks out.	Look around the surroundings.	Ask yourself 'is this my very best'.	Be part of building a new city.
One dream I'd like to chase, later in life.	Write about my early days in journalism.	When I am respected by all.	How many customers apply my ideas.	I never stop wanting to be better.	Encourage risk-taking.
One good way to foster innovation.	Necessity.				If a person leaves my room with a spring in his step.
One clue that tells me I'm the leader.	I know I am not, nor do I want to be.
